The advertisement features a close-up of a young boy with spiky orange hair, looking directly at the camera with a serious expression. The text 'We double dog dare you' is written in large, colorful letters (blue, orange, red, black) to the right of the boy. Below this, it says 'to find a software provider that knows more about manufacturing than we do.' The MAPICS logo, consisting of a stylized 'Y' shape with the text 'mapics Practical Innovation', is in the bottom right. At the bottom of the ad, there is a block of text: 'Whether it's ERP, SCM or collaboration—if it's manufacturing, MAPICS knows it inside out. For more than 20 years, MAPICS has supported the needs of mid-market manufacturers. We've never lost focus, and our products, our services, and our record of handling manufacturers' business issues prove it. Can any software company say the same? They may, but can they back it up? We can—with thousands of successful implementations with mid-market manufacturers. And applications that run on your technology platform—Windows NT, UNIX, Linux or IBM Series. At MAPICS, practical innovation is not just talk; it's reality. We understand manufacturers' pain—like finding ways to increase efficiency and improve performance—and we provide solutions that deliver real value they appreciate. So take our dare, or yourself why MAPICS is the best choice to help you compete better in today's manufacturing environment.' Below this is a 'Special Offer!' section: 'Special Offer! Visit www.mapics.com/book to receive your free copy of Good to Great: Why Some Companies Make the Leap, and Others Don't, by James C. Collins. Supplies are limited, so do it today!'

Childhood hunger is more common than you think.

1 in 5 kids lacks access to the meals they need to thrive. That's a big problem. But with a little effort, you can make a difference. $1 can provide ten meals for kids who need them.
